Dear sir:

The Christian College Consortium, a federation of thirteen, four-year, fully-accredited liberal arts colleges spread across the country, is sponsoring a three-day faculty seminar on international affairs in late August 1979. Twenty history and political science professors from our member colleges will be in Washington, D.C., for briefings and teaching workshops.

As a part of this seminar, we would like to arrange a briefing at the CIA for these professors. I have been told that the Agency will provide special briefings and I would be particularly interested in a briefing concerning your annual "trends report" usually released in the Fall on the U. S. - Soviet strategic balance. Could a briefing be arranged on the findings of your annual report and on the way your conclusions are derived.

For many of our faculty, a briefing at the Agency would be a real privilege and a positive benefit that would enhance their teaching of courses in international affairs when they returned to their campuses. A desirable time on our schedule would be 3:30 or 4 p.m. on Tuesday, August 28th, for an hour or more. Other times would be possible if this time is not convenient.

We appreciate your assistance. Be assured that a briefing such as this would be a very profitable experience not only for the participating faculty, but also for their students.

Sincerely,

J. Bernbaum
